WHY SHULS PUT ONE UP

The printed sheet is out of date by Wednesday

Zmanim shift every week. Someone prints the sheet on Monday and tapes it by the door; by midweek the times have moved. Whoever prints it is tired of reprinting it — and the people who most need it, visitors and guests, are the ones reading the wrong time.

This replaces that sheet permanently. Halachic times are calculated from your shul's precise geographic coordinates and your own time zone — not an approximation for the nearest city or zip code — and they refresh continuously. Each shul decides which times it wants displayed.

WHAT YOUR SHUL PROVIDES

- A television or monitor, 55"–70" recommended, in a high-traffic area
- Any existing internet connection — wired or Wi-Fi. Requirements are minimal
- A standard electrical outlet at the mounting location

Five zones, one glance

Left	Zmanim and the atomic clock, synchronized to the second, in your shul's time zone. Each shul chooses what to show.
Top	Hebrew calendar — the Hebrew date, the weekly parsha, and Shabbat start and end times.
Center	Sefirat HaOmer, Hayom Yom, daily study and institutional information relevant to your area.
Right	Your congregation's own announcements, posted and changed by your own staff at any time.
Bottom	Kosher advertising, drawn only from the Jewish community in your area.

YOUR OWN ANNOUNCEMENTS

- ✓ Events and programs, with text and photos
- ✓ Class and shiur times
- ✓ Birthdays and anniversaries
- ✓ Yahrzeits
- ✓ Weekly memos and notices

ALSO ON THE BOARD

- ✓ Sefirat HaOmer, with the day's kabbalistic attribute in Hebrew and English
- ✓ Rotating Torah inspiration between community updates
- ✓ Local weather
- ✓ Several ready-made templates to choose from

What makes the service free. A strip along the bottom of the screen carries advertising — every advertiser kosher, and from the Jewish community in your own geographic area. The local kosher market or the local mohel, not a national brand.

The bottom strip on two live screens — a dental office, a massage therapist, a local mechanic and a community artist. All from the shul's own area.

Dashboard

Every subscriber manages and modifies all customization options at any time through our multilanguage web dashboard. A mobile app is in development.

Online support by WhatsApp and email, 24/6 — closed Saturdays, out of respect for Shabbat.

INSTALLATION, IN FULL

- Two cables: HDMI to the television, power to the wall
- Wi-Fi is configured from any phone in a few minutes, with our step-by-step guide and our team on the line
- No technician, no IT staff and no changes to your network
